The marriage ceremony of the Episcopel Church is solemn and impressive. There is no To Excuances .- Will exchanges publishing hurry and bad taste about it. The doomed couple have time to consider the chances before them-to look at the abyss upon which they stand, and to turn back if their heads swim and they think they cannot make the trip with all the responsibilities. In most of the dissenting churches, and in all magisterial marriages, a few words does the business. A man rises on the floor a bachelor, and in a twinkling a few half mumbled sentences makes bim a benedict. There is nothing to fix the event in his mind. No solemn peal of the organ-no response, will float across his memory bereafter to remind him of the vows he was presumed to take before the altar. In the Episcopal service the vows are a matter of fact, and not a chimeral or light picture. There is no blinking the fact-if a man takes the principal character in such a ceremony as we witnessed last night at Christ Church, he is married for

Financial and Commercial Summary for the Past Week.

The market for public securities has been agi-very hopeful people, and bear our misfortunes Gold has changed but little, ruling with great steadiness. The demand for money has been quite active, and the market, for the first time in a long series of mouths, was rather stringent, but not inconveniently so, and all the good paper offered was taken at 10@12 per cent. The large business doing in pork draws a good deal of cur rency into the interior, as is usual at this season, but this will soon come back. Exchange has been very dull, and the supply exceeded the de-that the misrepresentations of the partisan press of the loyal States have induced many to believe that the rebeis could be starved out by the block ade, but never was any idea entertained more false than this, as the last census returns will show. From them we learn that in 1859-the census year-the slave States had two million twenty million six hundred thousand hogs, fifty five million bushels corn, and twelve million bushels of peas and beans. The exact figures,
